

PROMISING ATHLETES PROGRAMME

Logan Nicol

Driven by a passion for the ocean, Logan was first introduced to the waves by his father, instantly becoming hooked on the sport. This early connection helped lay the foundation for a remarkably successful competitive career.

His dedication has yielded major achievements on both the domestic and international stages, highlighted by capturing the Men's Open national title three times. Last year, Logan achieved a major career milestone by representing Great Britain on the world stage during the championships in El Salvador.

To maintain his elite competitive edge, he utilises a comprehensive training regime centred around the gym and the swimming pool, as water-based fitness and core strength go hand in hand with high-level surfing. Logan is also looking to incorporate yoga classes into his routine to further enhance his flexibility and balance. Outside of surfing, he enjoys staying active by playing padel with his girlfriend, hitting the golf course, admitting it is just for fun and spending quality time with his family.

His father remains a foundational role model for teaching him how to surf, alongside Kelly Slater, whose career serves as a major source of inspiration. Being selected for the Promising Athlete Programme has been vital to his ongoing development and future success. Having a fully equipped facility located just down the road gives him convenient access to everything he needs to follow his training programme, while the support helps him save crucial funds to finance his extensive travel and competition trips.
